Katona Patient • Age 35 / 2,200 Follicular Units

It's no secret that longtime Chicago fullback Jason McKie has game. Two years before retiring from the Bears, Jason noticed his hair rapidly thinning and balding. It was a constant distraction. Jason did what so many men do – he shaved his head. Until Katona, Jason didn't think he had an option.

Q. Jason, since you retired Q. So that's the only from the Chicago Bears, you've kept busy. You've got restoration? the Jason McKie Foundation, you're involved in your community. You're a busy man. How did hair restoration end up on your calendar of things to do?

A. It's always been important to me to stay connected. I don't play for the Bears anymore but the fans and the club gave me so much I have an opportunity and a responsibility to give back. Hair restoration got on my schedule because it was fast and easy.

reason you decided try hair think?

A. Honestly, I don't know that I would have considered it otherwise. A few of my buddies were talking about the procedures, and I couldn't tell they'd had it done. That's what sold me on the idea. I was really tired of shaving my head every other day. There aren't a lot of hairstyle options when your head is shaved.

Q. So what does your wife

A. I think she's probably happy I waited. When you're playing football you get a lot of attention, imagine if I had hair? Nah, I'm kidding. I don't know if she ever got used to me with no hair, but she's loving me with hair. I look like the handsome guy she married.

Enrique B.

Chicago Police

Katona Patient • Age 43 / 3,000 Follicular Units

Confidence plays an important role in the work of a police officer. Hair loss was eating away at Enrique's self-esteem. The pictures didn't lie - it was time to do something about it.

Q. Enrique you talk a lot about confidence. You're a police officer, you wear a badge, you carry a gun it's hard to imagine you're not confident.

A. See that's the thing, confidence is one of the key factors thing about losing your hair in being a police officer. I've been an officer for 20 years and when I started losing my hair - it affected me. I would see pictures of myself, or look in the mirror and the more I did, the less I recognized myself. I just didn't like that guy. I had an option...be the guy I saw in those pictures or do something to be me again.

Q. And having hair was the Q. I have to ask - what's difference.

A. Unless you're going through it – you can't know what it's like. Hair loss makes attractive. But there's somethat constantly gnaws at you.

been the reaction to your new look.

A. The best reaction I got was from someone I hadn't seen you look older, and yeah, less in ten years. He didn't notice my hair at all - but he did think I lost weight. Yeah, I'm glad I waited, but really - I wish the technology had come along sooner.

Kurt W.

Kurt's decision to go ahead with the procedure started, "a chain reaction of positive events in my life". He got a new job, got promoted at that job, met a great woman...now she's his wife. As Kurt puts it: "I can literally pinpoint all of that [success] back to the decision to do something about my hair loss." Thanks to Katona.
